

QuEST Forum's Code of Conduct

QuEST Forum requires its members and staff to conduct themselves ethically and to:

- Be honest and impartial in serving the public, associates, customers and suppliers
- Treat fairly all persons regardless of such factors as race, religion, gender, disability, age, or national origin
- Strive to increase the competence and prestige of the quality and telecommunications professions
- Assist colleagues and co-workers in their professional development and to support them in following this code of conduct
- Treat each other with professional respect, while recognizing that there may be passionate differences of opinion
- Respect differing opinions and votes, without repercussions to those that differ with our opinion
- Abide by the QuEST Forum By-laws
- Act as faithful agents or trustees and avoid conflicts of interest and any appearance of conflicts of interest.